

Innovations In Marketing: Lessons From My 50 Year Career In Marketing

Learn lessons from my 50 years in marketing as a business owner. This is not an academic book of all theories, these are both real-life marketing campaigns that I did for my businesses. My first direct mail marketing campaign had great success. It launched the family business that lasted for decades. The results were so good from that first campaign that my father quit his job as a milkman and went into the business full-time. He had made his entire years income as a milkman in six weeks in the new business. I had wanted to get a job as a newspaper delivery boy but my father said they never pay you on time if you want to do something make a flyer for me. I went to the Sunday comics and I traced out Mutt and Jeff raking up grass and then I hand drew the letters of my first flyer. It was then mimeographed on a Gestener mimeograph and I hand-delivered it with my friends. The results were outstanding I was 10 years old! This experience ignited my lifelong passion with marketing. The school principal wanted report report me to the police for dealing grass. He had heard I had all this cash and I had four vehicles that I was driving to school. I explained to him that I had borrowed an aerator from my dad's company and was aerating grass after school. Yeah so how much money could you make aerating lawns? I told him I was doing 15 lawns a night at $20 each. He said that's $300 a night! Do You know how much money I make a month as your teacher? I said no I've never had a job! $600 a month and I have a university degree. This was in 1972 when I was 16 years old. When the first cell phones came out they were a 2 pound brick phone which had virtually no memory. I created a QuikCall wallet directory so they can order their wallet make calls. I created and developed many different versions of them including a dollar bill size it fit in the wallet like money. When smart phones came along I redesigned it for Digital. I always done extensive direct-mail and then advertised in newspapers. I then discovered that I could put my own magazine together. I developed Home and Leisure Magazine. I developed it differently than any other magazine because it was designed by an advertiser. I wanted to give the other advertisers a deal that I didnt have to chase them for money. I gave my wholesale rate full page full color covering the entire upper income homes of the city for $500 a month. This was a fraction of what any other magazine was. With this simple twist I changed my biggest cost to my largest profit center. I had a 95% renewal rate because it would give up such a great deal. I explained to them that with traditional advertising, 70% of the dollars they paid was for salespeople to find you, sell you and collect from you. I eliminated all that cost and passed the saving onto them. Over the last eight years I developed digital marketing on a totally different scale. I developed logo branding marketing so that when people look for what you do, your Logo appears in the first page of Google. This was effective around the world.
